I imagined John Blanke as:

- A Jazz musician
- A man who was proud and confident
- A strong-minded individual
- Shabaka Hutchings
- A talented career musician
- Not as an image I hear him

A REFLECTION OF MYSELF:

- A bold and brassy leader
- A powerful force of sound
- A talented, proud yet sad man
- A seasoned traveller
- A cheerful fellow
- Someone who strived to use his skills to succeed both self-assured and soulful

A fellow diaspora musician and parent:

- Having a strong sense of determination, perhaps quite fearless
- A lone black person in the white context of the Royal Court
- A learned man
- A graphic crowbar
- A musician
- A survivor
- An exceptional musician
- A Jazz musician
- A real person
- Not fragmented to fit in a box or category of inclusiveness
- A man of courage
- A man who blew a medieval fanfare
- A time traveller
- An individual in possession of exceptional talents
- Physically and emotionally strong
- A “trump card”
- A talented man in his own right
- The firstborn son of Nana Damoah

A confident and assertive character:

- A man who might have felt he was a stranger in many strange lands.
